InterWrite™ PRS (Personal Response System) combines interaction and assessment to enhance classroom productivity. With InterWrite™ PRS, no child is left behind because ALL students participate using their infrared wireless remotes to answer questions and record their responses with the simple click of a button. The instant charting and displaying of the results gives teachers the ability to measure student comprehension, provide real-time student feedback and refine lessons. An integrated grade book allows teachers to grade and record tests and quizzes in seconds and simplifies student-reporting requirements. Whether PRS is used to take attendance, quizzes and tests, or lesson review, teachers can focus more of their time teaching and less time on paperwork and grading.

Instantly see your class's response and measure their comprehension.

Engage. Motivate. Inspire. Assess.

ask the questions

InterWrite™ PRS can be easily used for taking attendance, quizzes and tests, or lesson review. Students can respond to a variety of different question formats: true or false, multiple choice, or numeric valued, simply by using the alpha numeric keypad. Teachers have the flexibility to create questions in the PRS system and/or easily turn their PowerPoint™ slides into PRS question slides. (PowerPoint™ Add-In feature—Windows® Only)

encourage class participation

With InterWrite™ PRS, students are more engaged and more active in the classroom. All students participate throughout the lesson answering questions posed by the teacher. InterWrite™ PRS also facilitates the students learning together in group activities, creating rewarding and exciting classroom interactions.

receive instant feedback

Students respond immediately with the click of a button. Teachers can instantly gauge the class's comprehension as a group or by individual students and adapt the lesson to fit the students' needs. Instant assessment means teachers are constantly aware of each student's progress.

see the results

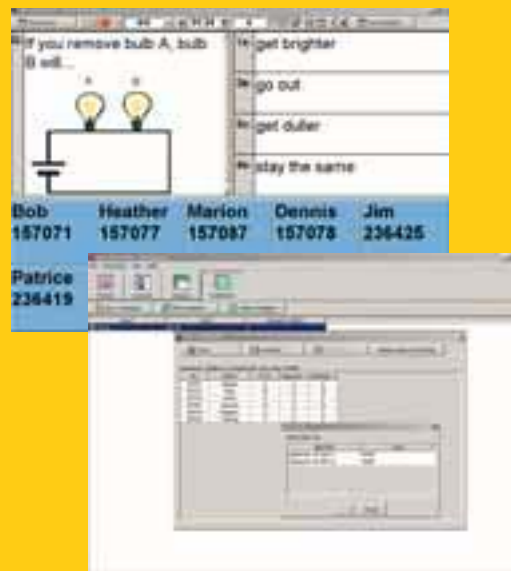

Responses can be charted and displayed by class, by group, by question or even by student. Results can be recorded within the built-in grade book or exported for use in a variety of other popular grading applications, giving teachers more time to plan their lessons instead of grading tests. Of course, the best results are in the students' retention of the materials.

InterWrite™ PRS fits in any environment—from a small classroom with 15 students to large auditoriums with over 400 students.*
